BIG STORM IS ENDED.

Financial Sky Is Now Clearing.

Feeling of Confidence Prevails Throughout the Entire Country.

Further Advance in Prices of Stocks Is Considered Certain Today.

J. Pierpont Morgan Is Given the Credit for Preventing Serious Trouble.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There is every indication that the financial storm which swept over New York during the past week has spent its fury, and a feeling of confidence prevails not only in this city, but in other financial centers throughout the country, that conditions are surely, but perhaps slowly, resuming the normal.

Unlike last Sunday, the new week opens without fear of further failures or financial disturbances of any kind, and with a feeling of certainty that before the end of the week all evidence of the storm will have disappeared.

A resumption of the advance in the price of stocks is regarded as certain at the opening of the stock exchange today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The financial conditions which existed at one time last week in New York had entered upon improvement before the week ended, and confidence was growing that the worst had been seen.

A man was found who could ride in the whirlwind, and disregard the storm, and by common consent, the leaders in the financial world subordinated their actions to the guidance of J. Pierpont Morgan.

With affairs thus submitted to the direction of a central intelligence, ground was already gained for a readjustment. The position began to define itself as the dissolving elements in a solution are made to crystallize around a center. The situation that began to emerge was found not so hopeless as had been feared, the prevalent features, indeed, having risen to the stage of uneasiness and hysteria among depositors in the institutions which were subjected to runs.

PRESSURE ON CREDITS.

However lacking in reason, the condition thus precipitated was sufficiently serious, and the various indications of this were striking and often sensational. The pressure on credits, even in the expanded condition to which they had attained, had become severe, every barometer having reflected this for many months past.

The events in New York resulted in drawing down the deposits of banks, thus diminishing the very basis of the volume of credits. The consequence was a violent constriction of credits, which proved a blight on values where it touched. The task confronting the financial generals in New York was to limit as far as possible the field of operation of these constrictions of credit.

The Secretary of the Treasury came into cooperation with the great capitalists of the country to supply resources for meeting the crisis.

The requirement was a heavy one, owing to the contagious nature of the financial fright and the general movement which followed among banking institutions to fortify themselves even beyond their needs. Millions of ready money had to be thrown into the vaults of the trust companies, which were sustaining a run, while demands were made on the banks by other trust companies, which had funds on deposit with the banks.

As the great depository center of the country, New York banks are subject to similar demands from all over the country during a period of threatening money conditions. The consequence was that credit in certain departments of the money market was practically paralyzed. This was true of operations in the stock market, where a condition of deadlock had developed by Thursday, and which was only broken by the offering of $25,000,000 on call when the traders were in greatest need of it.

OFFENDERS LOPPED OFF.

It is not expected that affairs will subside immediately into placidity, after so violent an upheaval. The lopping off of offending members of the financial body has made wide progress, and a removal of an offending factor in the banking situation is viewed with gratification by all friends of solidity and safety in banking. Even greater gratification is felt over the opening of the way to reform the New York Trust Company situation. Orderly cooperation and mutual assistance among these powerful institutions are in themselves important achievements and notable additions to the fortifying of the whole financial fabric.

These measures have been full grown, out of the week's situation. Provision for systematic information of the actual condition of the trust companies and periodical reports of this to their own central authority, are safeguards that every banker in the country will regard with satisfaction.

NO HURRIED CONFERENCE.

Today was marked by the usual Sunday calm which gave the financial leaders an opportunity to ease the tension of overwrought nerves experienced during the week. Most of them and there was a noticeable absence of the hurried conferences of recent days. The departure of Secretary Cortelyou for Washington removed a conspicuous figure from the field, but it was felt that with President Roosevelt's strong support, as expressed in his letter made public last night, Mr. Cortelyou's presence in Washington was favorable to such further governmental assistance as might be required.

PREPARING CERTIFICATES.

At the Clearinghouse there was much evidence of activity in preparation for the issuance of loan certificates. This, however, was confined to subsidiaries, as the Clearinghouse, which is to pass upon collateral offered for the certificates, did not hold a formal session.

BANKS WHICH SUSPENDED EXPECT TO REOPEN DOORS.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Within a few days all of the State banks and trust companies in this city which have suspended, including the Knickerbocker Trust Company, expect to resume business.

Some of them expect to reopen tomorrow if the arrangements which the clearinghouse association is effecting for their safety are completed in time.

This statement is made upon the authority of Clark Williams, superintendent of the State banking department. When asked today why receivers have not been appointed for the banks which closed their doors last week, he replied:

"I presume it is because they all expect to resume business within a day or two. The appointment of receivers is a matter which rests with the general attorney. When a bank which comes under the supervision of my department closes, the superintendent of State banks simply takes charge of the institution until such time as its affairs can be examined and a report made to the attorney-general. Upon the nature of that report the attorney-general decides whether or not it is advisable to ask for receivers."

"So far as the general situation is concerned, I believe the crisis has passed and that the return of confidence will come. It is probable there will be some scared depositors tomorrow, but the spectacular lines of waiting ones, I think, will disappear. None of these banks, it must be understood, closed because they were not in a solvent condition. They were simply confronted with the anomaly of the country being prosperous, but the supply of currency being for the moment entirely inadequate to meet the demands."

BIRTHDAY SOAKING.

President Past One More Epoch.

Forty-ninth Anniversary Finds Him at Another Close of Victory.

Takes Long Walks, Goes to Church, and Later Gets Wet by Rain.

Enviably Record of Conquests Closed or Begun on This Day.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Today was the President's forty-ninth birthday. He spent the morning at the Dutch Reformed Church, and walked to church in a heavy rain, and at the close of the services walked to the executive office, where he read his private mail.

He remained at home until 5 o'clock, and then, accompanied by Secret Service Agent Sloan, he went for a walk across country. It rained all the time the President was out, and when he returned to the White House he was drenched with mud and wet through. Mrs. Roosevelt and the children each gave the President a birthday gift.

SEND CONGRATULATIONS.

Baron Sternberg, the German Ambassador, and a large number of other persons, including King Edward, sent their congratulations to the White House.

There was a dinner party at the White House tonight in honor of the occasion.

This was the President's seventh birthday while President of the United States. Six of them have been spent in the White House, and one on a battleship. Each birthday has witnessed a victory for him after a long fight, or the beginning of a fight which was to end in victory.

First birthday, 1861—Spent in the White House. One month a President and two problems on his hands—Cuba, and the Church of St. Nicholas, dealt at length with the subject, and Manager Levee also took a similar text at St. Patrick's cathedral. These and other sermons were notable for their strong counsel toward public calm.

Second birthday, 1862—Spent in the White House. Against the protest of his own followers, most of the newspapers and the majority of the people, he had settled the Schley controversy.

Third birthday, 1863—Spent in the White House, with an extra session of Congress two weeks off. Extra session called to consider Cuban reciprocity and resulting in complete victory for the President in his two years' fight.

Fourth birthday, 1864—Spent in the White House; near the close of a Presidential campaign which was to elect him by the greatest majority in history.

Fifth birthday, 1865—Spent aboard the battleship West Virginia, returning from a southern trip on which he had begun the task of winning over to himself the South, then bitterly hostile to him.

THE NAVY. TO ADVANCE "FIGHTING BOB."

PRESIDENT SUGGESTS CREATING TITLE OF VICE-ADMIRAL.

It is pointed out that Evans, when he sails for Pacific, will be in Command of Most Powerful Fleet Ever Gathered Under American Flag—Other Reasons Given.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The great battleship fleet which is to make its way from the Atlantic to the Pacific, will probably be commanded by a vice-admiral, and that officer is now Rear-Admiral Robley D. Evans. Of course, this is conditional upon Congress giving its sanction to the proposal that will be made by the President to establish this new rank in the navy.

Conditions now are believed to be more favorable than ever before for this project. Rear-Admiral Evans is going to sail in command of the most powerful fleet that ever gathered under the American flag. Not only that, he commands more battleships of modern type than any other naval officer in the world, and the only officer whose blue pennant floats over as numerous a fleet of all kinds of warships as Lord Charles Boscawen, with his English squadron, and he is of greater rank than a vice-admiral, being an admiral, like Dewey.

On this cruise the American fleet is to look upon many foreign powers and exchange courtesies with foreign fleets in several places in Brazil, Chile, Argentina and other countries. The American commander, supposing he is to retain his present title of rear-admiral, would be outranked, for the name of all these countries contain officers of the grade of vice-admiral, which would make the American commander's position humiliating.

It will be pointed out in Admiral Evans's case that not only is he, by his remarkable service, entitled to this advancement, but any objections to the creation of the new grade that might be broached in Congress, might be overcome by pointing to the fact that as Admiral Evans retires next August the office will be of short duration.

WILL INCREASE RATES.

Mexican Rates, After Long Discussion, Agree to Twelve Per Cent. Rise. Effective Soon.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 27.—It was authoritatively stated today that a general increase in the railroad rates of the country would go into effect in the near future.

This conclusion was reached after many sessions of the Railroad Commission and of the officials of the various railroads. The latter held out for a 20 per cent. increase, but the commission agreed only to a 12 per cent. increase.

No agreement was reached in the matter of the shipment of ores. This point will be settled at a later conference.

"JOSHING" IS TOO MUCH FOR SENSITIVE MISS.

Engaged to Be Married, Her Friends Make Light of Her Affection Until She Breaks Engagement. She Then Discovers How Much She Cares for Man, and Goes Mad.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

MERIDEN (CT.), Oct. 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The friends of Miss Laura, a young woman of Meriden, Conn., who has been teased by her sweetheart, John Harris, until in desperation she flitted him, then, only, she realized how dear he was to her.

In the terrible conflict of her emotions, her reason tottered and she became insane.

So violent is she that her parents sent her raving to the State Institution for the Insane at Meriden yesterday, and young Harris is himself almost demented.

Harris has been courting Miss Barker for two years. Recently their engagement was announced, although Miss Barker wished to keep it a secret. Whether or not they cared her, the young women in the factory where she was employed almost literally "teased the life out of her."

"All he had to do was to ask you, Laura," they kept telling her, or "you can't live without him."

Miss Laura, susceptible to ridicule, exclaimed at last: "I'll show you whether I can live without him." She called young Harris to her and told him their engagement was broken.

Feeling to betray her affection, she assumed an anger she did not feel.

He turned on his heel and left her without asking for a word of explanation. The next day she showed symptoms of mental aberration, and soon was violently insane.

ALFONSO A FAILING.

Fear Is Felt For Spain's King.

Belief Is Expressed That He Has Inherited Consumption.

Symptoms Similar to Those of His Father Before Son's Birth.

Hope of Physicians Lies in Majesty's Love for His Queen.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

MADRID, Oct. 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Spain is deeply disturbed over the physical condition of the young King Alfonso.

Public anxiety is aroused because of the emaciation apparent in the monarch, which seems to grow week by week. The restlessness which marked the beginning of the fatal malady in the case of the father is particularly marked in Alfonso. The supreme hope of the King's physicians lies in his love for the beautiful young Queen. It is hoped that open air life may eradicate the seeds of consumption which all fear have been implanted.

The visit to Nice, subsequent to Alfonso's visit to England, was planned upon the advice of his physicians, who dread the effect of the rigorous winter climate of Madrid. Whether the King of Spain will go is a grave question, for there has been friction between Spain and France over the Moroccan affair.

The theory is generally believed that Alfonso is the victim of consumption, inherited from his father, who died of tuberculosis several months before Alfonso's birth.

Office Building of Pioneer Mining Company, Best of Its Kind, and Two Fine Residences and Other Structures, Destroyed by Conflagration in Alaskan City.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

TACOMA, Oct. 27.—Nome had another serious fire Friday, one involving a property loss of about $300,000, according to a cablegram received by Jafet Linderberg of the Pioneer Mining Company.

The second-avenue office building of the latter corporation, the best structure of its kind in the town, was completely destroyed, at a loss of $20,000, including $4000 in currency.

The office of the Nome Water Company, the Snake River Grocery Company, the telephone company building, and the residences of Thomas Dyer and Joseph Brown, the Little Creek mining magnate, were destroyed, in whole or in part. Dyer's residence was the finest in Nome.

The fire burned four hours. No particulars are given in the message as to its origin.

AMERICANS CELEBRATE.

Fiftieth Anniversary of Founding of Church in Paris Is Appropriately Observed.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

PARIS, Oct. 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Fifty years of history are thrilling through our hearts," said Rev. Dr. Edward G. Thuermer today in the pulpit of the American Church in Rue de Berri, which celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its foundation.

The congregation was large. Rev. Dr. Thuermer had been selected to deliver a historical discourse because he was the pastor from 1880 to 1904. He said:

"The first service in English ever conducted in Paris was in 1817, and the first American service was conducted by Rev. Robert Baird in 1835. The first pastor of the present church was Rev. Edward N. Kirk, who superintended the building of the house of worship. Workmen at that time, as generally now, worked on Sundays, but a little American girl in a neighboring house, fastening a letter to a stone, threw it over the wall into the midst of the workmen, who found it an exhortation to cease working on Sunday. At first they were indignant, but Dr. Kirk explained the advantage of Sunday rest and afterward he agreed to pay them seven days' wages for six days' work."

TOUGH. POLICE CHIEF ONLY A NAME.

Job Most Detestable of All in the City's Gift.

He's Cursed If He Does, and the Same If He Doesn't.

They Whirl in and Whirl Out in Quick Succession.

BY A FORMER CHIEF OF POLICE.

I can't think of anything meaner you could do to a man than make him chief of the Los Angeles police force. I feel truly and heartily for Capt. Tom Broadhead; I understand he is the latest victim.

It must be a source of bewilderment to the people of this city to see the chiefs of police go whirling in at one door and whirling out the other in such rapid succession. To those who really know the situation, however, the wonder is not that they stay so short a time, but that they manage to stick it out so long.

Candidly, it is the most detestable job ever created. A man would be cheated if they paid him $1000 a day. His position is like that of a horse hitched to a post unyielding to the wheels of the city's machinery.

Some of the officers in the department are actually ambitious for the position, but when you get a wise old owl like Capt. Broadhead, for instance, you don't hear any clamors from his direction.

One of the chief sources of the chief's trouble is the detective department. Under the old system of detail and appointment, the politicians forced a lot of dead ones on the chief. Under the new civil service idea, it is, if anything, worse.

COULDN'T FIND LIGHTED CAR.
Some of the men in the detective side are efficient and capable men. But I swear that some of them couldn't find a lighted street car on a dark night. Under either system you are to stand for the chief and the public holds you responsible for their acts.

Detectives are born—and it's a mighty infrequent event by the way. The civil service dumps a lot of men on you who can "finger" and know when the Continental Congress was convened. The old system dumped a lot of men who had helped carry a precinct for some dufer in the City Hall and who seemed to have been created by Providence for that particular event—as they never seemed to be again guilty of conscious thought.

While surrounded by men like that, one of these strange cycles of crime strikes you and the people of the city are afraid to go to bed at night. Hold-ups every night, burglaries and bank robberies! You work your good men to death, but there are not enough to go round. You don't catch a body. The "cold-turkey brigade" pours in a lot of poor old street corner bums on you as "suspicious characters."

The newspaper writers, editors about your inefficiency. They print cartoons representing a crook parading through the Police Station with a sign on his back, giving him the word "record" and begging somebody to please arrest him. They sarcastically recommend that you ring up some kind-hearted and have them send around some one in diapers to give you advice on running the department.

THEN YOU'RE A MONSTER.

Some of your "fine deaths" bring in somebody that they've tortured with one and while you are frantically trying to find out about him, some newspaper reporter finds him and writes a "story" that is simply gooey with tears. He reports that you are a monster who would frighten an Apache chief with your flimsy gruelities.

The paper sends around some fresh boy reporter to interview you as to the depths of your misdeeds. If you tell him it's none of his affairs, he paints you as an insolent ruffian who tortures people as recreation for his abandoned heart. If you try to be agreeable about it, he says you turn aside the trouble of the city with an "insolent smile." Oh, it's fine going either way.

Every once in a while some reporter goes on a gun-boat and exposes the iniquity of the police in not making arrests of prostitutes and gamblers. Some night you get your dander up and made a raid and they say you are trying to make a grandstand play for publicity reasons.

If you don't arrest the Chinese once in a while, they rummage around and paint you as being padded. Some night you get your dander up and made a raid and they say you are trying to make a grandstand play for publicity reasons.

They paint the cruelties practiced by the police upon the unhappy and friendless Chinamen; that is to say, you entered their "tan joints without the formality of an invitation, and without using the front door."

OH, THE FAMILY SKELETON!

One of the greatest sources of your trouble is the family skeleton. Somebody connected with a prominent or political family gets into trouble, and you catch him—if you give the story to the newspapers, and, also, you catch him—if you don't. Every chief stands to see such stories looming up.

Somebody's daughter elopes with a crook, and you have the family coming down with tears. Some one high in the Reata of the Mighty "phones down and orders you to keep it quiet. You're left to one, he will tell it himself. Or it will come out in the divorce court. Then you get from the newspapers—something fierce. These kid reporters will come around every day and ask you sarcastically if the bureau for the suppression of news and the encouragement of secret vice has anything to give out.

If you try to sweat a man, the reporters roast you for giving the third degree, and if you don't, they say you are a fool who brings cases into court without any evidence.

Another fly in the soup is the small city ordinance. The wife of some exalted person drags her skirt through sidewalk spit and you are commanded to get busy. You make a lot of arrests for spitting on the sidewalk and the people who read on the way downtown snarl about a city with a fool for chief of police.

If you really do make a catch and sneak him into jail before the reporters find it out and spoil your chances of doing anything, some lawyer takes him out on habeas corpus and the Superior

Some of the tribulations that befall a Los Angeles chief of police, showing why no man ever sticks to the job.

Court roasts you until you begin to peel off at the bone.

The newspapers, however, are the least of your woes.

POLITICIANS IN THE WAY.

Everything you try to do, every direction you try to turn, you find a politician standing in the way.

You find a policeman who has been drunk on duty and guilty of the most extravagant dereliction of duty and a resolve to make an example of him.

The police commissioners give you an awful look, drag you into a side room and tell you never to make any cracks like that again. The cop turns out to be a cousin of somebody's.

You find here and there some human wart who has grown into some fat job and whatever he does—whether it is a "scientific" revelation of nothing at all—you can't touch him.

In fact, you find yourself surrounded by things you can't touch. Talk about Adam and Eve and the forbidden tree! Every chief of police in Los Angeles has a whole orchard. It would take the serpents in India to tempt him to them. You would have to work overtime and acquire indigestion tasting of all the apples.

There are policemen you can't touch and there are places where strange games go on that you have to pass in an absent-minded way. There are women of the tenderloin who must be allowed special privileges. In my time there even used to be a fruit wagon which had to be allowed to break the law without interference.

Some policeman is always getting a fever of zeal and arresting one of the forbidden ones. Then some politician comes down on a full gallop and you have a great time squaring yourself.

You hear and read the politician tells you you are a "mutt" for your pains.

WEE DIGGER OF DEEP HOLE.

SANTA MARIA COMPANY TRIES
NEW PRODUCTION PLAN.

Sets Man to Digging Shaft Before the Job When He Reaches Four-Hundred-Foot Level—Experiment

Watched With Interest.

Thin men with narrow shoulders are likely to be at a premium in the Santa Maria oil field in the near future. A new departure in oil development in that region may start a wild rush after the unathletic and the kindred specimens. And then again it may not.

The Santa Maria Central Oil Company coddles a pet scheme that is watched eagerly by oil men. It is to sink a shaft to a depth of 500 feet or so before starting to drill, the object being to end up with a larger hole than the unathletic and the kindred specimens. And then again it may not.

As the result of a murderous assault upon a man who had been standing at a fruit stand at No. 216 North Alameda street last night, Jacob Morris, a carpenter of Santa Monica, lies at the Receiving Hospital with three "deep" lacerations on his head and a fractured arm. He was still unconscious early this morning. The negro assault, although P. C. Peterson, prosecutor, was coming in his way, but the police had not yet traced the man.

About all the information the police have to go on is that a negro, who had been arrested after he had been threatened with arrest because he refused to tell the man who he was, had been seen by the police at the time of the assault. He could not describe the fellow.

The northern address of Morris is withheld until the Portland officers have an opportunity to investigate the case there. Although the Portland officers deny that Morris was known by that name at the Los Angeles police station, he lived there under that name, just as he claims in his confession.

ALBRIGHT FIGHTS BACK.
Local Architect Notifies San Diego Education Board He Will Sue for Commission and Damages.

Architect Harrison Albright of Los Angeles is at loggerheads with the Board of Education of San Diego over what he terms its unjust treatment of him in the matter of plans for a school building in that city.

Albright has been engaged by the board to prepare the plans for the building, but the board has decided to dismiss him. The architect threatens to sue the board and the city of San Diego, not only for his regular commission, but also for damages to his professional standing.

"In compliance with an invitation dated September 4," said Albright, "I prepared two sets of sketches for a new grammar school in San Diego, which sketch I submitted to the board on September 18."

"On that date I was notified verbally that I had been appointed architect of the school building, and on the following day I received written notice of my appointment."

"During the last thirty-five days I have spent a great deal of time and money in the preparation of alternate sketches for a proposed building to meet the requirements suggested by various members of the Building Committee."

"The board has served written notice on the board of his intention to sue for his commission and for damages."

DOG POISONER ABROAD.
Works at Night in Pico Heights and Some Valuable Canines Meet Death.

The dog poisoner is abroad in Pico Heights. An unusual, the cowardly miscreant, who has been poisoning the dogs of the neighborhood, has been seen at night. He works at night. Poisoned meat scraps left on the sidewalk in front of residences do the deadly work. Sunday morning a handsome collie, with license tag on its collar, fell victim.

Saturday a handsome Gordon setter and a Scotch terrier were the victims. The body of the terrier lay in front of No. 119 Irolo street yesterday. About a block farther down the street was the carcass of a fine retriever.

There is an ordinance which makes it a misdemeanor to poison any dog. Thus far the poisoner has escaped arrest. He is a very necessary rule that no checks can be taken for him. We get all kinds of people in there during a night. When we release people on bail, we are acting for the court and the court holds us responsible for the money.

It is obviously impossible for us to take the credit of the credit of it to some private watchman.

One of the foremost roots of creation that the relative or friends of the victim of any prominent citizen must be arrested. When you go to bed at night your dreams are disturbed by the vision of some irate prominent citizen with a fine "bun" whom your policemen have cast into the drunk cell. All rules of mankind must be reversed for them and they are reversed for them.

My "bun" came about indirectly through a prominent citizen whose check was refused at the desk. There is a very necessary rule that no checks can be taken for him. NERVE FAILED, HOWES SAYS.

CONFESSED FORGER TELLS OF HIS SWINDLING PLANS.

Reaped Rich Returns in Various Cities, Asserts Portland Man Who Was Captured Here, and Intended to Extend His Operations to Many Other Promising Fields.

When C. R. Howes, the forger captured Saturday night, was given the "third degree" by the detectives last night, he revealed a swindling scheme of wide proportions. Sait Lake City, Ogden, Denver, Butte, Kansas City, Omaha and St. Louis had been singled out by him as promising fields for new operations. Flushed with the success of a year's unchecked career as a check forger, Howes studied out a system which probably would have cost countless merchants thousands of dollars.

Howes made Portland his headquarters. There he was best known. Yet he admits having secured hundreds of dollars in forged checks in that city. Working out of Portland, Howes bounced merchants in nearly every town of any size north of Oakland, and west of the Rocky Mountains, up to the Canadian border. After each sortie into the surrounding country, he returned to Portland, he says, and there lived in luxury on the proceeds of his crimes.

So fruitful were these forgeries that Howes decided to make an extended trip throughout the Middle West and spread his forgeries in every city. He had the Portland police department was unaware that Howes had lived in their city, so well had his plans succeeded. It was necessary for the Los Angeles department to send nearly the entire confession to the northern police before it was able to begin work on the case.

In his first confession, Howes told the police that he had first fallen into forgery in San Francisco, a year ago, when he went there to find work, and was lured by gamblers. He says he started his forgery campaign on a reservation. He says she has a bad reputation in the tribe.

At the time of the arrest, she was complaining witness against another Indian whom she accused of selling liquor and the jury acquitted the defendant in five minutes at San Jacinto. The story of Maria was believed by the jury to have been manufactured by Haines and herself. McCormick knows nothing about Lachosa but upholds the course of Indian Agent Wright in his method of dealing with the liquor selling during fiestas.

If Maria repeats her story about the Indian policemen to the grand jury, however, there is bound to be an investigation. All those who have seen her in jail have been touched by her pitiful distress over her children. She has the typical Indian eyes—deep and sorrowful and pleading, like those of a dog, and her gently brown face wet with tears is not a cheerful picture.

Decline of Marriage.

D. R. J. G. HENRY, pastor of the First Baptist Church, preached yesterday the first sermon of a series on "The Home," choosing as his particular topic, "The Decline of Marriage," and basing his remarks on I Timothy iv, 3: "Forbidding to marry." He said, during this sermon: "The decline of marriage is one of the ominous signs of the times. It touches and tarnishes the prime institution of the civilized world. Some people ought never to marry. Such as fools, idiots, and seriously diseased and brutal. The explanation of this alarming fact is found first of all in the false and unchristian notions of marriage. It is viewed as a civil contract instead of a religious privilege. The stability of the state depends upon the right relation of the sexes. Instead of genuine love, all sorts of unworthy motives furnish the basis of matrimony, money, convenience, romance lead many into hasty and fatal alliances. This holy state of matrimony is viewed as a kind of lottery, where the quality and value of the prize are uncertain and interminable.

"The extravagances of modern life are responsible, in part, for the decline of marriage. The simplicity of the first marriage has passed away. Elaborate display and vulgar ostentation at the wedding ceremony are the certain precursors of scandalous proceedings in the divorce court. To marry is almost as expensive as to die. The silly notion exists that newly-married young people must begin life where their parents began. The cost of dress, picture, and living are such as to deter many young men from becoming benefactors.

"The growth of selfishness and the exaggerated forms of individualism make heavy contributions to present marriage. As a historic fact increased culture renders marriage unpopular. It creates morbid hyper-criticism, critical fastidiousness, and idealism which can fill. The age of luxury is both selfish and sinful. It means growing independence and unfaithfulness between the sexes. The social and industrial life of the twentieth century woman makes her less susceptible to the appeal for marriage.

"Undoubtedly, the growth of clubs, societies, and lodges has much to do with the decline of marriage. They are expensive, they furnish comradeship, provide for social life and so in a way they detract from the home. Neither club or lodge life minister to the sanctity of the security of the family.

"False notions of marriage deter many people from entering upon this holy state. For a certain number of socialists has disseminated conceptions of marriage and married life that are utterly false and destructive of the domestic peace. This philosophy has been atheistic. It regards all social institutions as purely voluntary. It ignores the fact that marriage is a social institution under the sanction of the state. It robs the home of its moral basis and its religious significance.

"In sneering at England's domestic life, J. Stuart Mill said: 'The whole of the sex is devoted to dollar hunting. He declares marriage to be a hunt for a regard marriage as a sin and the propagation of children a crime.' Such philosophy and attitude are largely responsible for the decline of marriage. The equality of the sexes and the dissolution of the family. The whole tenor of such teaching is to destroy and destroy the home and to deter young people from entering upon the sacred privilege and duty of marriage.

"No one will question that the prevalence of immorality and the fearful scourge of the social evil are largely responsible for the decadence of marriage. Impurity has become an epidemic. Brutality and cruelty in family life discourage many from taking upon themselves this holy vow. On an average about 300 women in this country are murdered by brutal and heartless husbands. The whipping post is altogether too mild for these domestic fiends.

"The most terrible fact in the explanation of the decline of marriage is found in the easy natural divorce that has become the curse and the scandal of American civilization. One half-million marriages are dissolved within the past twenty years; while the number of those who have sought release from the marriage tie has doubled within the past fifteen years. Pretexts without number are given as basis for temporary or permanent separation. The smart set, whose filthy lucre gives them a sort of rotten respectability, for the gratification of their lusts for fresh amities, keep the divorce courts perpetually grinding.

"The cure for this portentous and pessimistic state of things is to be found first of all in the revival of the scriptural idea of the dignity, duty, and blessing of marriage and the home; second, a national divorce law based upon biblical grounds and rigidly enforced; third, harsher penalties for the most prolific source of immorality and crime, suppress pernicious literature and punish the vendors to the limit of the law; insist upon a single standard of morality for both sexes; a white life for two in the law of the land and to be the law of society; lastly, a reign of righteousness and the cultivation of a public spirit which shall scourge the unclean into secret oblivion here, and prepare them for the hottest hell which awaits them hereafter."

Social Principles of Jesus.

At the First Congregational Church last night Rev. William Horace Day, D.D., gave the third lecture on "Jesus' Social Principles Applied to Wealth." These lectures are being given under the auspices of the Men's League, which had extended invitations to a number of organizations supposed to be out of sympathy with the church.

"The Prophet of Nazareth had a great deal to say about wealth," said Dr. Day. "Blessed are ye poor—woe unto you that are rich, and again, 'How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of Heaven.' Do we hear in these sayings the voice of an envious poor man coveting and yet abusing the rich? A study of all His words on this subject shows that He saw in wealth not that which was evil in itself but something which had possibilities and perils in its relation to life.

"His fundamental principle of life was that which seeks first the kingdom of God, or the divine spirit and the righteousness of God or the divine character. The abundant life which expressed the filial spirit toward God and the fraternal spirit toward man is to be put first. When the possession of wealth is put first it is a peril; when it is content within the limits as a means to that life it has possibilities.

"There is a strange parable in which Jesus uses an uncleaner to show the thing really worth while in human relation. This man was bad and yet he had a pearl, the supreme use of the pearl for his future need after losing his place by using money to promote friendship with the men who did business with him. He was content with the rich fool of another story and the cold-blooded but honest Pharisee had found the supreme use of the pearl in promoting the neighborly spirit. Because a great thing had happened when the rich publican Zacharias decided to restore fourfold for all he had defrauded and to give half his goods to the poor, because his heart was open to the wish to live the brotherly life Jesus said, 'Today is salvation come to this house.'

"To do the work of the talents commends the thrift of the servants who invest the investment to serve their Lord. Even for the very poor, for those who have little to invest, there is enough to win commendation because it was generously used. The self-sacrifice of wealth was blessed whether it was much or little, if it was real sacrifice, for the sake of others.

"With terrible distinctness our Lord warned His time against the perils of money. In that wonderful story of the rich fool, He has packed into a paragraph what Balzac or Zola would have attempted in a volume—a bit of realism which would sound its warning to all time. The brutal materialism of the rich man, his blindness to real values and to the uncertainty of life breathes in the words, 'Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thy ease, eat, drink, and be merry.' Absolute disregard of seeking the kingdom of God of His righteousness; complete unconcern of social obligation; that private wealth is a public trust.

"To them that trust in riches comes the warning. Trust in things instead of in God. Worship Mammon and the soul is dead. Today we are repeatedly aware of the difficulty which Jesus expressed. How hard is it for them that have riches to enter into the kingdom."

"The Rapid Transit investigation in New York reveals another bit of realism and great abilities who have put wealth first. A paper railroad was bought for $750,000 but it was paid for with checks for $500,000. The man who was instructed to pay with his own checks to six parties as graft. The whole amount stated to this day on the books of the Metropolitan Security Company as the cost of the road. The gambling of the last few years of property has risen in proportions that it took a cataclysm to stun the drunken gamblers of Wall street. Last week they flashed out the palace of a recent ruler of the Mene Tekel Ephraim, weighed in the balances and found wanting of Belshazzar feast. Unless we hear the voice of Jesus calling and learn of Him to use money as a means to gaining the kingdom of righteousness and love, we, too, shall all likewise perish."

Shakespearean Sermon.

"As You Like It" was the subject chosen by Arthur S. Phelps at Central Baptist Church, Alhambra, last night, being the first of a series on Shakespeare's plays. Taking as his text, Phil. 2:15, he said: "Be ye as trees planted by the water." The stage was born in religion, as have been the best painting, music, and architecture. As the great works of Shakespeare are re-produced, and God to men, as dancing was once a part of religious worship, so the church employed the stage to dramatize vividly the great religious truths. Why has it also made so large use of all these fruits of genius? Because, having no inventiveness, it must borrow, and have nothing. The man who wears religion's cast-off clothing, for all sin is virtue carried to excess.

"The play is a tale of its own quotations. 'Thereby hangs a tale,' let us read underneath the charming story which the play of 'As You Like It' has been framed. A young ruler, his royal seat and took up his abode in the lonely forest of Arden. Luxury of the court, the acclamations of his unique power and genius, which he might have used for his own exaltation in another situation, were discarded. The good ruler lived a life of sweet simplicity, showing a remarkable power of adaptation to his new environment, finding tongue in trees, and sermons in stones. He transmuted suffering into redemptive force, crying, 'Sweet are the uses of adversity.'"

"A usurper, Frederick, assumes the seat of authority. His treason uses the good ruler's things as if they were his own. Supported by a powerful army, he lives for himself, with no word of thanks to that man from whom his blessings came. With the usurper were retained the ruler's daughter, Rosalind, and her friend, his own daughter Celia. Rosalind, of noble blood, lives among her father's enemies in a manner worthy of her parentage, yearning for their well-being, and devoting herself to those who persecute her. Celia, who acquires the enmity of the usurper, and goes, with Celia, to seek the exiled ruler, Orlando, also, meeting with hatred from the usurper. Perfectly finds the good ruler, whom at first he misunderstands, but is won over by a great heart of love. Shakespeare thus says the usurper is himself converted after religious conversation, and surrenders the supreme seat of authority to the man whom he has persecuted. Will you, too, say with one of the characters: 'I will chide no breather in the world but myself; against whom I know most faults. Will you acknowledge them before God, and restore Him to His seat of authority?'

"Freeze, freeze, thou bitter sky, Thou dost not bit so nigh."

Mr. Phelps' subject for next Sunday night will be, "Macbeth."

The First Halt.

A picture of life's journey and the world as a great temporary camping ground, with a warning as to what preparations and precautions are necessary to avoid the snares and pitfalls, was the subject of the sermon given by Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage, D.D., in the First Presbyterian Church, Dr. Talmage's text was Luke 12:24: "Woe to him that is at ease in a day's journey." During the discourse, he said:

"An out who has camped a good deal in life and spent many months in the open, this text has taken a firm hold upon my mind and heart. Life always seems to me to be a camping journey. As some of us are just pitching camp a few miles away from the old homestead, I want you to take an inventory and find out what essentials you lack and go back and procure them."

"I want you, in the first place, for this journey of life, to overhaul your mental equipment. Have you a developed and educated brain? Have you a brain capable of accomplishing results? Have you a brain that has been taught and drilled so as to enable you to excel in some department of the world's work? If you find with you make your first halt, that you have not this capacity to do some one work better than to do it part time, you must go back and acquire this power, for trained brain, before you proceed farther. Remember, you are pitching camp as did Joseph and Mary, after your first day's journey.

"Or camp every one must be willing to do his part. Life is a team effort, and friction will surely come. Some must chop the wood and cook and wash the dishes, some one must carry the water and unload the pack mules or the wagon. Some one must take the long, weary journey, some one must pasture for horses. All these tasks are not easy to perform when your blood is jumping and jabbing and throbbing in your inflamed feet. But some one has to do these tasks. If you are not willing to do them, some one else must. And yet, sometimes, you will break down on a camping trip who is too lazy and selfish to do anything, or to learn to do anything. He makes his own troubles and disparages your labors, until he becomes a perfect pest and makes himself and irritates everyone around him. That is the journey of life. Some men are willing to do more than their share of work and deal more than their share of work. If they are mentally incompetent, then they bravely and conscientiously say: 'I will learn to do my duty. When I am ignorant I will manfully shoulder the burden of my mental deficiencies. Is that your life, O man? Is that your life, O woman? What you mentally which was made by God's hand and by hard labor willing to develop?'

"But a man in the journey of life must be more than mentally equipped. He must also be physically and morally protected. As many dangers confronted the oriental traveler, as when young man breaks loose from his home surroundings there are many temptations before him. The onus of the temptations is to prepare for them before we start."

"Now this journey of life, we must meet our moral and spiritual dangers. In our first halting place away from home, we must be prepared to resist those dangers? If not, then had we not better go back where we can supply our spiritual deficiencies? But there is another fact we must settle before we start upon the journey of life, and that is our destination. It is of vital importance for a man to know in what direction he is to travel before he leaves the home city. After we have been traveling on day after day it is almost impossible for us to turn back and start out with another party of emigrants."

"It is a very foolish move for some of us to start the journey of life when we do not know or care to what destination we are heading. O man, are you traveling toward heaven? Are you journeying toward hell? The difference is still another warning which I want you to heed well in your journey of life. That is the moral and the spiritual character of the men and the women with whom you are bound to be brought in daily association."

"But there is one fact above all others, which our text teaches. That is when we start out on our journey of life, we should take all our dear ones along. You ever had this unutterable longing come over you which some people call old-fashioned homesickness? Then if you so miss your dear ones when you carry from home for a few weeks, how do you suppose you would feel if you were never to meet them again? Pray, is not that the way we should be in the journey of life? Could we ever be happy on earth, or in heaven, if we know that our dear ones were safe with us and safe with God? And yet, alas! how often we separate from our dear ones, our husbands and wives and brothers and sisters and children are safe in Christ. Dare we, can we longer count on our journey to the city of the New Jerusalem, unless we go back and persuade our loved ones to surrender their hearts to Jesus Christ and come along?"

A BUSY BOARD.

RAILROAD COMPLAINTS.

MUCH WORK FOR INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Hearings Before the Commission to Be Resumed at Washington. The Questions of Tariffs and Rates to Be Given Much Consideration. New Bill of Lading Wanted.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has resumed its hearings at Washington. During the summer a great number of complaints against the railroads have accumulated which will be taken up as rapidly as possible.

The present methods as to railroad tariffs are unsatisfactory, say the Journal of Commerce. They rest on the order of June 10, 1907, in which the commission provided that, owing to the difficulty of applying the terms of the Interstate Commerce Act as amended, to the carriers' traffic, each particular traffic official desiring modification of the order should file with the commission a request for modification accompanied by a list of the points (stations) on the line at which the volume of traffic and number of shippers is sufficiently large to render it feasible for the commission to make a study of the traffic and to make a list of the points at which agents are regularly on duty and at which tariffs should be applicable to or from those points should be posted. The officials were also requested to make a statement of the special reasons upon which their requests for modification are based. The intention of the commission was to require that at points at which tariffs are not posted a complete list of tariffs should be kept in charge and custody of the agent, and notices be posted in two conspicuous and public places in every station, warehouse or office, so that the rate schedules can be seen by applying to the agent. The subject of the right to cancel any order of modification in favor of any particular company that it might be induced to issue as a result of due application. The situation thus established did not, however, prove satisfactory to the roads, and in consequence of requests that effect the commission later issued an order on July 8 directing the holding of the hearings.

THROUGH AND LOCAL RATES.

Associated with this question of tariffs and modes of filing them is the matter of through and local rates which is now thought will have to be dealt with afresh by the commission. Shipments which are identical with companies themselves, are more or less dissatisfied with the rules under which they are now working. In the revised edition of the regulations governing the construction and filing of freight tariffs and classifications and passenger fares, the commission has made an attempt was made to close that matter. Informal complaints have been received by the commission in connection with regularly established through rates which are in fact have been raised in some localities between the same points. The commission has no power to change the rates, but it has the right to make upon formal complaint. It was thought, however, proper to say that, if called upon to do so, the commission would probably adopt the policy of considering the through rate which was in effect at the time of the complaint, and whether the rates of certain class, especially where made up of fixed charges, are identical with the rates filed for such shipments with the Interstate Commission. The ordinary shipper has no way of learning this except from the rate sheets or direct from the road itself, so that much depends upon the ways in vogue for filing the tariffs in public places and the assurance that they are filed correctly. Inquiry at the office of the Interstate Commerce Commission, showing the evidence that it is evident that there is uncertainty whether this question will be raised at the hearing on the tariff question. There is an evident expectation that this will be done.

BILL OF LADING QUESTION.

Allied to both of the problems which have just been mentioned is the bill of lading question, showing the efforts of the Interstate Commission decided on a form of bill of lading in answer to the repeated requests of the shippers and their various organizations. This bill of lading, as proposed by the commission, was published. Since that time it has developed that the banking interests which have been promoting the movement for a uniform bill of lading are dissatisfied with the form which the commission has proposed and would prefer to have it modified in a number of particulars. It is expected that this point of view will be represented at the hearing before the commission. Some effort to suggest a compromise plan that might meet the ideas of all parties is being made. The bill of lading is advocated by the banks which are not approved by the railroads. This will make it difficult for the commission to reconcile the conflicting points of view. The indications point to action by the commission on the bill of lading question. It is expected that the bill of lading will be put forward by it, in which case the bankers' movement will go on as if desired kind are to be secured by independent legislation.

German Car Fender.

A new German street car fender is described by Consul H. T. Norton of Chemnitz, in the American consular reports of July 15 and September 16. The only viable part of the mechanism is a projecting strip extending from the front of the platform of the car and attached to a shaft or rod carried by the platform. If this strip comes in contact with any object it yields easily and forces the shaft backward. By this movement the electric current is cut off, an automatic brake is applied and a broad fender, some three feet back immediately in front of the wheels, drops to the rail level and picks up the object on the track. During the continuous daily experience when you carry from many cars with animals and mankind there has been no failure to pick up safely and easily all obstacles encountered. The device is controlled by the City Council of Dresden. Illustrations are on file in the Bureau of Manufactures, Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C.

When England Regulated Coal.

In former times England did not regulate the coal trade. The coal in the interests of the poor. In 1853, when the duty on coal in London was 10s. 6d. per ton, the coal trade was generally thirty-six shillings. Cromwell granted the city corporation a free license to import 400 chaldrons duty free every year for the poor citizens. At the same time it was provided that the city companies should lay up stores of coal in summer (from three to 575 chaldrons) and in winter (from three to 1000 chaldrons) in three quantities. And, in order to prevent extortion, consignment by monopoly, retail dealers were prohibited under penalties from contracting for coal or meeting the coal vessels before they arrived in the port of London.

INDIANS TO MEET SAINTS.
St. Vincent's Team Has Game for November Sixteenth.
Scholder Has Fine Hand of Braves Behind Him.
Coach Hempel Is Forced to Shift Local Line-up.

St. Vincent's team has received a telegram from Superintendent Hall of the Sherman Indian-St. Vincent's football game scheduled for November 16 is a certainty. Earlier in the week word was received from Manager Highmeyer, who wished to cancel the game, stating as his reasons that it had not been decided whether or not the school would be represented on the gridiron. In response to a wire sent by Manager Barnard of St. Vincent's, stating that the contract had been signed and arrangements completed, Superintendent Hall agreed to sending down the Indian team for the contest. Joe Scholder, the captain, is acting in the capacity of coach at present. He has a veteran team behind him, the better part of the old members have returned and the odds have it that there is much fine looking new material in the school. Football practice at St. Vincent's is on in earnest in preparation for the second big game, November 16, with the University of Utah aggregation. So far both teams have clean slate, Utah having made a sweep of the schools in that district. The Saints have had but the one Denver game to show their ability. Utah defeated the Denver team by a fairly large score, and in her other games have handled them by several pounds. To offset the great advantage Hempel will be compelled to shift his line considerably. He relies a good deal on the speed of his back field, and the second line will be made up of players who are not so fast. The Saints are looking upon the game as a pretty exhibition, but they are not so sure of the end result. The game is being played at the Pacific Athletic Club at Nautilus Junction, and the local sports are still guessing a little about the outcome. Attehl is the class of all the feathers in this or any other country, but it is admitted that he is going up against the only boy who might give him a hard battle for the title. Weeks is a good one, for he not only stopped three boys in one night in Colorado some months ago, but he knocked out Grover Hayes, and this is something to think about. Attehl is something to think about. He is also knocked out by Monte Attehl, the brother of the boy he is to meet tomorrow night; beat Harry Baker and the second will be ten rounds. According to all reports, both Weeks and Attehl have trained faithfully for the fight, and the betting naturally favors Attehl, there will be many who will attend the fight in the hope that he will be beaten. This is human nature. There will be six preliminaries. The first will be six rounds between Arnold and Tommy Murray of Philadelphia, and the second will be ten rounds between Dick Farmer and the Turk Kid Farmer is a main-event man, but is showing the sports what he can do. He is a speculator on the results of any of these scraps, for any guess is only a guess. Sam Langford, who is to fight Peter Jackson on November 12, was due to arrive yesterday and it is expected that Young Donahue will start west from Boston today.

REVOLVER PRACTICE.
Members of Los Angeles Club Win Easy Victory Over Team of Signal Corps Experts.
Notwithstanding the threatening weather yesterday, a good-sized crowd of enthusiasts went out to the Bishop-street range to see the pistol match between ten-men teams of the Los Angeles Revolver Club and the Signal Corps of the First Brigade, N.G.C. The revolver club experts won easily by eighty-four points, the scores being 263 to 279 out of a possible 400. The average of the winners was 45% and the losers 35%. Those on the revolver team were W. E. Potter, J. C. Douglas, G. F. Stephenson, W. R. Cutts, A. B. Douglas, E. E. Holcomb, W. E. Smith and E. C. Crossman. The Signal Corps team consisted of Corporals Bennett, Phillips and Major; Privates Logan, Conner, Sergeant Mathews and Waterman and Lieut. Hatchey.

New Laws Affecting Guides.
Hunters going into Canada this fall find a number of new laws affecting guides. No Yankee guides will be permitted to hunt in New Brunswick, non-resident guides whatever, in fact, but whereas the number of hunters permitted to accompany one guide has hitherto been five, it has been reduced to two—all of which will be very profitable to the New Brunswick guides. But under the new law they must make a report to the authorities of each game animal of each species killed by their parties. The non-resident guides have been very much against all this, but the authorities have provided for the return of the license fee of ladies accompanying hunting parties if they kill no game. Non-resident hunters are left in the United States where non-residents are free from license, and even the residents in twenty-one States pay small fees for hunting licenses. Alabama, California, Connecticut, Tennessee and Utah establish the year for the first time. Connecticut and Maine impose special licenses of $15 upon alien hunters, as has been done before in other States.

Automatic Guns Tabooed.
New acts prohibiting the use of "automatic guns" are among the most novel of those passed this year. Hunters going into Pennsylvania, Ontario or New Brunswick find serious trouble waiting for them if they attempt to use these fowling pieces of the magazine type, as these commonwealths have just prohibited their use. Before any year has passed this prohibited zone will be very probably a considerable one. In nearly every hunt of the American gunner the voice of the old-school sportsman is raised in protest against the automatic gun. Bills to prohibit its use have this year been introduced in the Legislatures of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oregon, Rhode Island, Texas and Washington, and some of these States are likely to pass such legislation next spring.

After the Record.
An effort will be made to lower the automobile record between San Diego and Los Angeles today. A Thomas car, owned by the Western Motor Car Company and driven by Bert Latham, will be sent over the Coast road, L. Lusby and Harry Bem, an expert from the Thomas factory, will ride in the car. The start will be made at 5 o'clock, and official time will be taken at San Diego.

Souvenir of America.
A German after having spent one week in New York received letters from his family asking him to send back something of the land of the free. Being a conscientious man, he studied conditions, about town for another week before attempting to decide upon any one commodity representative of American culture and habits. Finally he made up his mind. He sent six packages of chewing gum.

HUMORS OF CLERICAL LIFE.
The Bride Decided to "Obey" When the Bridegroom Started to Leave.
An English village clergyman tells these stories:
A very fine-looking couple once came to me to be married. They gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. Jones. I noticed she was sad and serious, and she said she was honest, and also that she loved her. I began the ceremony, and she broke down and wept. I learned afterward that six years before she had loved another man. She was a widow, and she had never seen him since. For several years the second man had been suffering from a severe illness, and she had loved him. Finally, she had consented to marry him, but was not altogether happy. She must have known the "ways of life," for, unknown to her, he had hunted up the first man, made him promise to have her in the city on that day, and at that very hour to be in waiting at an adjacent hotel. In five minutes the groom returned, bringing the other man with him. When they entered she recognized the man, and for a full minute she realized how changed he was, how changed she was, and what an unreal memory she had cherished. I do not expect to see again such an outbreak of affection as this with which she flew into her real friend's arms. They took their places for the ceremony. I finished the ceremony, pronounced them man and wife, and she went out the happiest woman I have ever seen. One day a couple came to me, bringing a witness of the parents of a young girl. Everything proceeded smoothly to the point of the "I do's," when she refused to say the last "I do," and I shut up my book. Then there was a scene. They argued and discussed the more stubbornly she refused. The parents became angry, the groom excited, and the bride hysterical. To humor her he joined in the request to have me leave it out. But I liked the fellow and decided that the sternness from me in the present

New Zealand's Tourists.
One of the numerous activities of the New Zealand government is a "State Tourists' department." The report for the year ended June 30 announces that 5684 sightseers were hustled around the beauty spots of the colony, as against 7142 during the previous year. They left about $600,000 behind them. The branch offices of the department in Sydney and Melbourne have proved as successful that others are to be started elsewhere. Moreover, a new office is to be attached to the high commissioner's staff in London, and he will specialize on bringing New Zealand's attractiveness to tourists' resort. The notice of the traveling public of Great Britain and Ireland.

Origin of Patent Medicines.
Patent medicines are the direct descendants of the concoctions offered by the quacks and mountebanks of earlier times, not without protest by contemporary writers. Thus, describing the mountebanks he saw at Venice in the seventeenth century, who were adepts in the art of advertising, speaks of the "oration to the audience of half an hour long, wherein he doth most hyperbolically extol the virtues of his drugs and remedies, though many of them are very counterfeit and false." And the author of a "Tour Through England" (1722) writes of a mountebank he saw at Winchester: "He cures all diseases and sells his packets for sixpence apiece." It is a pity, however, how so wise a people as the English are gulled by such pick-pockets.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE

LIFE-PRESERVER.

Falls Off Pier at Long Beach on Purpose, but Grasps at Safety; Says He's Sorry He Was Saved. Review of Candidates Nominated for December Election.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 27.—Brooding over business reverses, broken in health and almost penniless, Thomas Whitmore, aged 60, a tailor, living at No. 1833 Plumas street, Los Angeles, fell from the pier this afternoon. A life preserver and threw it to the victim, who seized it involuntarily and held on until Plunge Guard Vockeroch swam out and assisted him to shore. Whitmore was taken to the bath-house hospital, where restoratives were used successfully.

From all the attendant circumstances the apparent accident was an attempt at suicide. Whitmore came from Los Angeles this morning with 15 cents left after breakfasting on a cup of coffee and a doughnut. Alone in the world, old and out of work, he walked out on the pier, and, seeing a swimmer, he saw a swimmer, then walked ashore. Just after 1 o'clock he was seen walking along the lower deck muttering to himself and shaking his head. Pausing about midway of the pier, he took off his overcoat and hat and climbed up on the railing where he sat with bowed head, watching several fishermen who were close by. One of them warned the old man jokingly that he might fall off, and an instant later was startled to see the very thing

Whitmore landed in ten feet of water just inside the breaker line and went to the bottom. He came up, but sank again. As he came up the second time

His arms thrashing wildly in the air, a life preserver fell over his head which gripped it at once and the drowning man clung to it while attempts were made to reach him. Hans Vockersh, plunge guard, was acting as life saver and dashing into the surf, was able to bring Whitmore ashore unconscious. An examination of his clothing revealed the 15 cents and to Manager Archer he said he had eaten nothing but doughnuts and soup.

He said there was nothing left to live for and seemed to regret his rescue. Superintendent Archer reported the case to the Salvation Army who took charge of the unfortunate man.

POLITICIANS TAKE BREATH.
Both the Independent and Charter parties having, after a week's effort, completed their municipal tickets for the approaching city election in December, the politicians of each side have paused long enough to take a deep breath and look over the situation. The fact that the coming year marks the dawning of an epoch in the city's history made the task a hard one. A special charter under the provisions of which the city authorities can govern the municipality on broader lines, goes into effect on January 1, 1908. The official election in December will have no precedents in guiding them along the new lines of legislation. There are no real politicians on the ticket. Political faiths, Republican, Democratic, Prohibition and

The only cause for two tickets therefore appears thus far to be a matter of personal preference and a belief that one set of men is a little stronger than the other. Of the candidates on the Independent ticket, George A. Mohrenstecher, for Mayor, age 56, is secretary of the Alamo City and Bixby Land Companies and has lived here since years; Fred P. Baldwin, City Clerk, 49 years of age, incumbent of the office and a resident five years; Carl Monk, City Attorney, is a practicing lawyer, 43 years of age and a resident three years; Harry Barndollar, City Treasurer, 54 years old, is vice-president of the State Bank of Long Beach and thirteen years a resident; Charles E. Mitchell, Police Judge, is 65 years of age and a resident of Long Beach twenty-two years; George Mortimer Roe, aged 55, is a retired newspaper man and has lived here three years.

Of the Councilmen, T. G. Harriman, 35 years of age, is a physician; S. P. Sax-ton, aged 68, is a retired merchant; F.
Wingard, 35 years of age, druggist and capitalist; Marcus Campbell, aged 45, building contractor and realty operator; W. E. Hinshaw, aged 39, realty operator; M. B. Murphy, aged 62, merchant.
On the charter ticket, Charles E.

ndham, for Mayor, is 43 years of age, has lived here three years, a realty operator and a member of the Los Angeles Dock and Terminal Company; O. Boynton, City Clerk, aged 28, a realty operator; Stephen G. Long, City Attorney, a senior member of the law firm of Long & Baker, and a resident of twelve years; A. C. Lawson, Police Judge, is a practicing attorney, 35 years old, and a resident fifteen years; Frank McCusker, City vice-president of the Citizens' Savings Bank, 42 years of age, and (twelve years a resident; Charles Malcolm, Tax and License Collector, is 23 years of age, and a resident five years. Of the councilmen, Charles T. McGrew, aged 35, is a contractor; J. H. Robinson, superintendent of the Interstate Lumber company, H. S. Callahan, aged 28 years, merchant; F. W. Stearns, aged 34 years, realty operator; R. T. Dayman, realty operator; E. W. Hoag, 35 years, retired newspaper man.

WOULDN'T BE "SAVED."

Great excitement was manifested on per this afternoon when bathers on the surf were seen to dash ashore and hurriedly push the lifeboat into the water, when the life crew sent it rough the breakers at a lively rate. Out beyond the outer wharf, and 50 feet from shore, could be seen a boat covered with a black felt hat, bobbing up and down. The steamer came along and passed within a few feet of the man, but the anxious crowd saw no slackening of speed and a groan went up from many.

the lifeboat after a time turned and returned to the ship, and was overwhelmed with questions. "Did you see him?" and "did you save him?" "Oh, yes," drawled Vockerodt. "We saw him. He was in the lifeboat, and we saved him. The ship was within fifty feet of the man when we waved them away with a laugh. He was a supposed victim was Robert Jensen, a well known labor leader. He was a trouble maker, a bad fellow, and a scoundrel. He makes a daily practice of losing his temper, and his apparent distress was a change of position."

LONG BEACH NOTES.

The local lodge of Knights of Pythias has begun preparations for the entertainment of the Grand Lodge which will arrive here next May. Committees have been appointed and the use of the auditorium secured for the seasons of 1914-15.

NARROW ESCAPE OF MINERS PLACER CLAIMS.

Successive Torrents Carry Away Buildings and Gouge Out Deep Ravine Where Their Cabins Stood Santa Fe Will Establish Big Fruit Cooling Plant.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 27.—George Foster has come in from Gold Mountain section with the account of a heavy rain storm, which has been raging over that desert district for several days, repeated cloudbursts the streams, washing the mother lode, and carrying away two cubic feet of ore to a stable. Seven miles from the mouth of the Mountain Mining Company's property, Porter, Hal Smith and R. De La Cruz have been mining. Early in the spring they located considerable placer ground.

Wednesday morning the rain came down in torrents, and most of the day there was no let-up. In the creek was rising steadily and there was every indication that it would be sweeping side of the cabins before morning. The men sought higher shelter, taking refuge in an abandoned cabin which had been built several years before. During the night they were awakened by the roaring of the creek, the noise of men dying away. Again and again the

Thursday morning they found that the floods had swept away their cabins and barn, and where these stood a deep ravine had been cut. There was no evidence of a cable anywhere near flooring having either been swept down the channel of the creek or completely buried. They lost most of their provisions, considerable mining machinery and several kegs of powder.

They state that had they remained in the cabins there would have been no

WEALTHY JAPANESE USES GUN WITH FATAL EFFECT.

Tries to Murder His Sweetheart, and, Believing He Had Succeeded, He Fires Two Bullets Into His Brain and Dies Almost Instantly. Woman Uninjured.

After a futile attempt to kill his sweetheart, S. Matsui, a Japanese electrical engineer, fired two shots into his left temple about 9:30 o'clock last night at No. 327 Winton street, dying almost instantly. K. Noma, the pretty Japanese girl, fell in a faint on the floor and was still lying there when detectives forced the door to the room. The bullet, which Matsui aimed at his disheveled hair and lodged in the wall. When the Japanese woman was revived she told of the tragedy through an interpreter.

For more than a year Matsui has paid his attentions to the woman. They had a misunderstanding several days ago and since that time Matsui had refused to see her. Last night he called her by telephone, saying that he was sick and asked her to come to his room. She did so. A quarrel ensued in which he threatened to kill her and then kill himself. The woman attempted to persuade him not to do so. He pulled his revolver and fired twice. The bullet struck her forehead and he fired a second shot into his own head. He died almost instantly.

Matsui was one of the wealthiest Japanese in Los Angeles. Several years ago he came here from Seattle and established a business. Besides doing electrical work, he engaged in the plumbing business. His office and shops are located at 340 West First street. K. Noma, his sweetheart, is pretty, and has been but a few months in this country. She speaks only a few words in English and has a Japanese costume. Since she came to Los Angeles she has been employed in a wealthy family in Hollywood, taking care of the infant.

Matsui's body was taken to Pierce Brothers' morgue. An inquest will be held today.
